Mail Plane Inquiry

TULSA—Federal investigators in 12 states are seeking clues of possible sabotage of mail-carrying airplanes of the Ross Aviation Co.

One of the company's planes has been missing in Wyoming since Wednesday night. Tampering with aircraft in Midland, Tex., was discovered recently and a similar incident occurred several months ago at Poteau, Okla.

The Ross organization carries mail routes that cover 8000 miles. FBI and Post Office Department investigators working on the case had no comment.
